Chicago Flag and City Seal

The two devices on the cover of our program booklet are the flag and seal of the City of Chicago. The official Chicago Flag, designed by Wallace Rice in 1917, consists of four red stars, two blue stripes, and three white stripes. The two blue stripes represent the north and south branches of the Chicago River, while the three white stripes are indicative of the north, west and south sides of the city.

Blue is the color for water and red is for festivity. The white background represents the composite of all colors and signifies the population of all nations living in peace and harmony in Chicago. The four stars commemorate the Great Fire of 1871, the World's Columbian Exposition, the Century of Progress Exposition, and Fort Dearborn.

The history of Chicago's seal has been one of mystery and uncertainty. The first recorded seal of the city was a copy of the obverse of the half eagle gold coin. When Chicago was incorporated as a city in 1837, a committee was appointed to propose a design for a new seal. The design on the cover of this program was the result. The shield represents the national spirit of Chicago, and the Indian is indicative of the discoverer of the site of the city. The ship in full sail is emblematic of the approach of the white man's civilization and commerce, while the sheaf of wheat typifies activity and plenty. The babe in the shell symbolizes the peace and purity of Chicago as well as its wealth. The motto "Urbs in Horto" means "City in a Garden," while March 4, 1837, is the date of Chicago's incorporation.

The Association's Seal

The seal of the Association was drawn by Joseph Hooper (later our 4th president) in 1892 shortly after its founding. One side showed a lamp on a book of ancient history; under the book the motto "De Profundis," meaning "out of the greatest depths." A note of explanation stated that the volume of ancient history under the numismatic student's lamp meant that science takes first place as a truthful historical record and is above written history. The rays of light thrown out by the flame signifies the light thrown on ancient history by the science of numismatics. The other side of the seal bore the head of Pheidon, King of Argos, under whose reign coins were first used. The obverse of this crude seal was used periodically until it was redesigned in 1906 by Howland Wood, A.N.A. secretary. The seal has remained the same since that time and has been used extensively. It was not until 1929, however, that the seal, with only minor changes, became the official emblem of the Association.

WELCOME TO CHICAGO

HARRY X BOOSEL
General Chairman

We are indeed honored to welcome you to this historic numismatic event — the Diamond Anniversary Convention of the American Numismatic Association! The A.N.A. has now spanned three-quarters of a century of numismatic education and fellowship, and we are proud that much of that 75 years of our history has been written in Chicago.

It is our hope that you will enjoy your stay with us this August. We know that every member of the host Chicago Coin Club will be happy to assist you in any way he can to make the 1966 convention truly unforgettable. Please do not hesitate to make known to us how we may be able to help you — you are our guest and we want to be a good host.

All the members of the Chicago Coin Club join me in welcoming the American Numismatic Association back home to Chicago where it all began.

Chicago and the A.N.A.

When Dr. George Heath first proposed the idea of forming a national numismatic organization, some of his strongest support came from collectors in the Chicago area. In the June 1891 issue of The Numismatist, three area collectors, Wm. G. Jerrems, Jr., J. A. Heckelman, and David Harlowe, expressed their enthusiasm for Heath's idea. Due to their expressions of support, each was appointed a temporary officer of the young organization; Jerrems as president, Heckelman as a member of the board of temporary organization, and Harlowe as treasurer. Thus began the relationship between Chicago area collectors and the A.N.A. that has lasted for 75 years.

Dr. George Heath
A.N.A. Founder

When it was time to hold the novice organization's first convention, in the fall of 1891, the temporary committee chose Chicago as the site, despite the fact that Dr. Heath expressed doubts over the "propriety of calling the convention so far from the majority" (of members). Dr. Heath's worries proved to be unwarranted as the initial meeting of the American Numismatic Association was a success. Five members were present (Secretary Tatman was not, as formerly believed, present at the meeting) and twenty-six were represented by proxy. The convention was held October 7 and 8, 1891 at the old Commercial Hotel located at Dearborn and Lake Streets, a site now occupied by a parking garage. Wm. G. Jerrems, Jr., and the entire slate of temporary officers were elected for a one year term and the first constitution and bylaws of the organization were adopted. It was decided that although charter membership would be closed at the convention, the fifty-cent initiation fee would be waived until January, 1892; dues were set at one dollar per year. Even at the first meeting of the A.N.A., the importance of education was shown as a call went out for the organization's library and coin cabinet.

The glories of the "White City" attracted the A.N.A. members in 1893 as the third annual convention was held in Chicago in conjunction with the Columbian Exposition. President Heath presided over the meeting at the Douglas Pavilion on the corner of 36th Street and Cottage Grove Avenue. Twenty members were present and 23 were represented by proxy. Dr. Heath was elected to his second term as president, and entitled his presidential address "Is This Your Science, My Lords?" Papers read at the first A.N.A. educational program were written by several distinguished numismatists, including A. G. Heaton, Joseph Hooper and George J. Bauer, all of whom later became presidents of the Association. Following this part of the program, the matter of the library was brought up for consideration, and the members allocated $15 to be used for this purpose.

William Jerrems
First President

Two items at the Columbian Exposition created a great deal of interest among the visiting A.N.A. conventioneers. The Numismatist reported that the fair officials were trying to decide what to do with all the unsold Columbian half dollars which were offered for $1 each at the Exposition. According to the story, the unsold pieces would be returned to the mint and melted down. The other matter to occupy the numismatists' attention was the display of two 1804 silver dollars in the Federal Government Building at the Exposition. Dr. Heath reported, with tongue in cheek, that the security guard around the coins was increased during the A.N.A. convention.

The A.N.A. met again in Chicago at the Art Institute in 1911, and while the membership had climbed to over 500, the general treasury showed a disappointing balance of only $175. For the first time an effort was made to coordinate the conventions of the A.N.A. and the American Philatelic Society, as the latter met the week prior to the A.N.A. at the Art Institute. The principal business of the convention was a lengthy discussion of membership and convention badges. President Henderson told the fifty members present about the progress of the A.N.A. Federal Charter bill that had been introduced several weeks earlier in Congress. In May, 1912, President Taft signed the bill for the Charter. This convention also marked the beginning of A.N.A. ownership of The Numismatist, as earlier that year W. C. C. Wilson of Montreal had purchased the publication from Farran Zerbe and presented it to the Association. At this convention Judson Brenner of DeKalb, Illinois, was the second numismatist from the Chicago area to be elected president of the Association. It was principally through President Brenner's efforts that the A.N.A. purchased its first exhibit cases.

The Art Institute of Chicago was the site of one of the most memorable conventions in 1920. At this convention a paper by the well known Farran Zerbe made numismatic history. In the paper, Zerbe recommended that a special coin, hopefully a silver dollar, be struck to commemorate the recently won peace. Zerbe suggested that the A.N.A. lead the way in gaining support for the "Peace Coin," and this led to the striking of the Peace Dollar from 1921 until 1935. Samuel W. Brown of North Tonawanda, New York, also created a stir at the convention by displaying one of the recently discovered 1913 Liberty Head nickels and stating that he was willing to pay $600 for each additional specimen in proof condition.

William F. Dunham, a Chicagoan who had been the third chairman of the board of governors in 1909, displayed still another great American rarity: an 1804 silver dollar. At the business meetings several members expressed the opinion that the A.N.A. had lost its identity when the American Numismatic and Archeological Society changed its name to the American Numismatic Society, but a resolution to change the A.N.A. name to the National American Numismatic Association was defeated.

The A.N.A. met in Chicago for the fifth time in 1929, and for the first time convened in the Congress Hotel on Michigan Avenue. The official seal, shown on the cover of this program booklet, was officially adopted by the Association. A matter of debate was the A.N.A. contributing to the Smithsonian Institution for the improvement of the national coin collection. At the urging of Moritz Wormser, the organization voted to set aside a sum of not more than $75 to establish a loan exhibit at Smithsonian. Today this exhibit, known as the Moritz Wormser Memorial Loan Exhibit, is still on display in the numismatic gallery of Smithsonian. Members of the organization visited the studio of the well known sculptor Lorado Taft, and toured the city in automobiles.

In 1933 it was the Century of Progress Exposition that brought the A.N.A. convention to Chicago for the sixth time. With the nation in the depths of a depression, hotel rooms were available for as little as $7 per week. The guests were welcomed to the Congress Hotel by Alden Scott Boyer, the third Chicago A.N.A. president. The organization continued to suffer from the effects of the depression as the membership fell to slightly more than 1000. The business part of the meeting consisted of discussing the organization's financial affairs in depth and a discussion of membership medals, a topic which had been brought up periodically since 1910. Chairman of the convention was J. Henri Ripstra, curator of numismatics at the Chicago Historical Society and later president of the A.N.A. Rollo Gilmore of the Koin-X-Change Shop conducted the auction in which the coin to realize the highest amount was an 1849 Mormon $2.50 gold piece in very fine condition which was knocked down for $75. Nelson T. Thorson was elected president and Harley L. Freeman was elected chairman of the board.

Ten years later the A.N.A. met in Chicago again, in the first of two war-time conventions. The 1943 meeting was understandably small as war-time restrictions prevented many members from traveling to the LaSalle Hotel. President J. Douglas Ferguson, who will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his election to the presidency at this Diamond Anniversary convention, rounded out his two-year term by proposing that the organization establish a national headquarters in Washington, D. C. The organization elected King Farouk of Egypt to honorary membership in the Association, and elected Martin F. Kortjohn president and M. Vernon Sheldon of Chicago general secretary. Sheldon became the Association's 27th president, the 5th Chicagoan, in 1949.

The following year, as the war continued, the A.N.A. again met in Chicago, and almost 200 numismatists attended the 1944 convention at the LaSalle Hotel. The organization decided to establish an award for articles published in The Numismatist; this later becoming the Heath Literary Award. Five hundred new members joined the Association during the year and the treasury swelled to almost $44,000.

The ninth convention in Chicago was in 1956 at the Pick-Congress Hotel where, as general chairman, Glenn Smedley directed the largest convention up to that time. The 1956 convention was the first to break the 1000 registration mark as 1029 "signed the book." It was also the first at which the Association provided a security room, which is a feature of practically every convention and many shows today. Perhaps the 1956 convention will be remembered as the bid-board convention as many dealers began to make use of this innovation. The A.N.A. had grown to over 11,000 members and its net worth was $65,000.

This year, as we mark our Diamond Anniversary, the A.N.A. has over 27,000 members and is starting the construction of a home and headquarters building in Colorado Springs. Chicago is proud and honored to welcome members and guests for the tenth time. These seventy-five years have seen many changes and many familiar faces pass from the scene, but today the members of the Chicago Coin Club are as eager as ever to be host to the Association. Chicago has produced more A.N.A. presidents than any other city, and has had the honor of being the site of A.N.A. conventions more often than any other city. Three of the ten editors of The Numismatist are Chicagoans, and four of the fourteen Farran Zerbe Memorial Awards are in Chicago members' homes. The city looks with pride on its connection with the American Numismatic Association and hopes that the next seventy-five years will serve to strengthen this friendship.

Above are sketches of the designs for the Association's Diamond Anniversary medal, made by Chief Engraver of the U. S. Mint Frank Gasparro. At the time of printing this program the models had not been completed although the mint's production schedule calls for having some of the medals struck by convention time. Congress approved the issuance of this medal by the mint as a national medal; all production costs to be borne by A.N.A.

The obverse depicts Dr. George F. Heath, founder, in the center; William Jerrems, the first president, on the left; and Joseph Hooper, the first vice president, on the right. Below are the years of the first federal charter, of organization and of the 75th anniversary. On the reverse is a replica of the Association's official seal, surrounded by the legend "In Commemoration of the Seventy-Fifth Anniversary / By the Act of Congress / April 16, 1966."

The medal is being struck in bronze only; 3 inches in diameter; and limited in number to 50,000, none of which may be struck after December 31, 1967.

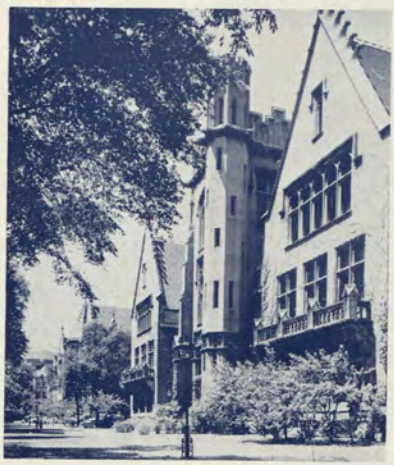
SPECIAL TOURS

Ten years have now passed since the A.N.A. last met in Chicago, and we invite our guests to note the many changes that have taken place in that decade. Two of the city's outstanding landmarks – the Prudential Building and the twin Marina City towers – have been completed; the huge lakefront exposition center, McCormick Place, has been opened, and many improvements of the Loop area have been completed. We sincerely hope that, as our guests, you will take advantage of everything Chicago has to offer – from the superb shopping of State Street and Michigan Avenue to the many outstanding museums and other cultural facilities within the Chicago area.



Chicago has restful charm and graceful beauty, also.

We have planned several entertaining tours that will interest the native Chicagoan as well as the out-of-towner. Wednesday evening from 8:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. a special tour will take registered conventioneers on an after dark tour of "The Windy City." This tour will cover the city's front yard, the lakefront, as well as other downtown areas. In addition, it will include trips through exciting and colorful Old Town, and quaint and exotic China Town. This tour is well worth the special $2 price per person.

On Thursday afternoon, starting at 2:30 p.m. and lasting approximately three hours, the gala daytime tour of the city is planned. It will cover all of the points of interest in the Loop area and many of those in the outlying areas. This tour will include the south side, University of Chicago area, and the far north side, Northwestern University area, as well as many points in between. The special price is also $2 per person.

Many will want to spend an afternoon in the sunshine Friday at the ballpark! Two hundred choice box seats have been reserved for A.N.A. guests at Wrigley Field where the Chicago Cubs play host to the Pittsburgh Pirates in an afternoon National League game. Bus service will be available from the Pick-Congress at 12:30 p.m. The cost of the bus trip to and from Wrigley Field and the box seat is $4 per person.

The youngster has not been forgotten either. A special tour of Lincoln Park Zoo has been arranged by the ladies of the hospitality committee. While there is no charge for children of registered A.N.A. members, the tour is strictly limited and tickets must be obtained from the registration desk. This tour will be closely supervised by the ladies, leaving at 1:00 p.m. Friday from the Michigan Avenue entrance of the hotel.

Friday evening a thrilling dinner and night club tour is available to all registered guests. It includes a steak dinner at George Diamond's Steak House and three night club stops. The price includes dinner, refreshments, stage show, and all tips, taxes and cover charges. This tour will start from the convention headquarters at 6:30 p.m. and return after 1 a.m. The complete cost is $16 per person.

All conventioneers interested in these tours are urged to make their reservations early as space is limited. All buses will leave from the Michigan Avenue entrance of the Pick-Congress.

In addition to the planned tours, the members of the convention committee will be pleased to assist you in arranging your own schedule of tours. Information on the various activities in the Chicago area is available in the Hospitality Room.

The Hospitality Room is open to all Diamond Badge registered guests. Under the direction of Chairman Jules and Minnie Marshfield, refreshments will be served from noon until 8:00 p.m., Tuesday through Friday, and noon until 3:00 p.m. on Saturday. Ladies activities are planned throughout the convention in the Hospitality Room, which is located on the lobby level in the Avenue East Room at the south end of Peacock Alley.

LADIES LUNCHEON

Kungsholm Grand Puppet Opera

The traditional ladies' luncheon will be a very special treat this year. Plans have been made for an outstanding smorgasbord luncheon Wednesday at the world famous Kungsholm Scandinavian Restaurant. Not only will this delicious luncheon be served to the lady visitors, but the Kungsholm puppet opera will be presented also. This luncheon will long be remembered as part of the Diamond Anniversary convention. The complete cost of the luncheon and opera is $2, but tickets must be secured in advance as the number of guests is definitely limited. Buses will leave from the Michigan Avenue entrance of the hotel at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Gala Diamond Anniversary Banquet

An A.N.A. convention would not be complete without the traditional banquet, and this year an outstanding banquet is planned. A Dutch Treat cocktail hour at 7:00 p.m. in the Rendezvous Room will precede the banquet. Seating for the banquet will begin at 7:30 as the guests will be assisted by the official convention pages. The meal will be served in the beautiful Great Hall, one of the outstanding banquet halls in the United States.

J. DOUGLAS FERGUSON
Master of Ceremonies

In commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his election to the presidency of the American Numismatic Association, J. Douglas Ferguson will be master of ceremonies at the banquet. "Doug" is one of the most distinguished numismatists and businessmen in North America and should add his Canadian wit to the banquet. Harry Flower, banquet chairman, has planned entertainment for the occasion and promises that all speeches will be held to an absolute minimum. Tickets for the banquet are $7.50 each and must be purchased prior to noon on Saturday.

Aerial view of Buckingham Fountain, located just east of the hotel.

Club Representatives Breakfast

Last year in Houston the club representatives' breakfast meeting was revived and met with great success. This year a similar program is planned for the Diamond Anniversary convention. The breakfast-meeting will be served Saturday morning at 8:00 a.m. in the Florentine Room on the third floor north. All club representatives and others interested in club work are strongly urged to attend. The cost of the breakfast is $1.50 per person, and tickets must be purchased prior to 3:00 p.m. Friday. A program for the meeting appears elsewhere in this booklet.

THE AMERICAN NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

The American Numismatic Association, an educational and nonprofit organization, is the largest and most active numismatic body in the world. It invites and welcomes to membership all worthy persons seventeen years of age and over who have a sincere interest in numismatics, whether they collect coins, paper money, tokens or medals, whether advanced collectors or those only generally interested in the subject without being collectors. Founded in 1891, the Association has about 27,000 members representing every state in the Union and many foreign countries. It was chartered for fifty years by Act of Congress on May 9, 1912; renewed in perpetuity by Act of Congress on April 10, 1962; and is a mutual organization for the benefit of its members.

All A.N.A. members, except Associates, receive the official monthly publication, The Numismatist, without cost other than their annual dues. Applications for regular membership should be accompanied by $11.00 to cover the admittance fee and first year's dues. Succeeding annual dues are $6.00. Non-member subscription to the magazine is $7.50. For application blanks or other information, write to the Executive Secretary, P. O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, Colo. 80901.

The A.N.A. home and headquarters building will be constructed soon in Colorado Springs, Colo. This permanent facility, for which funds have been contributed by members, will make possible more and better services to members through increased efficiency and consolidation of scattered facilities and personnel; provide for expected growth and expansion of A.N.A. and its programs; house the nation's largest circulating numismatic library; improve the dissemination of numismatic knowledge and information through its audio-visual program and its publications; provide for the establishment of a national numismatic museum; be a symbol of the importance of the collecting and study of money from the dawn of civilization to the present; and afford every member an opportunity to have a tangible part in the Association for its betterment and the advancement and enjoyment of numismatics on a worldwide scale.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Pick-Congress Hotel is divided into a North Building and a South Building, connecting on the lobby (street) level by Peacock Alley, and by a crossover on the third floor. The North elevators are located directly off the lobby, and the South elevators and escalators are just south of the Michigan Avenue entrance, off Peacock Alley. Even numbered guest rooms are in the North Building; odd numbered guest rooms are in the South Building. Registration, exhibit and bourse areas are in the south section of the building, while the third floor function rooms are in the north section.

A security room has been provided for the use of all registered A.N.A. members. It is located in the Shelby and Carter Rooms (combined) on the third floor south. All conventioners are urged to take advantage of this facility for the protection of their valuables. It will be open as follows:

Monday, August 15 ..... 12 noon to midnight
Tuesday, August 16 ..... 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. and 7-11 p.m.
Wednesday - Friday ..... 9-11 a.m. - 1-5 p.m. - 7-11 p.m.
Saturday, August 20 ..... 9-11 a.m. and 1-7 p.m.
Sunday, August 21 ..... 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Monday, August 22 (all items must be removed) ..... 8 a.m. - noon

All registration and information activities are on the second floor south in the Francis I Room near the elevators and escalator. Everyone must register to be admitted to any activity of the convention.

All business meetings, auction sessions, and the educational forum are in the Avenue West Room, located on the lobby level at the south end of Peacock Alley. The hotel's main check rooms are nearby.

Exhibits are located on the second floor south in the Gold Room, Plaza Room, and Belmont Room; except invitational noncompetitive exhibits to be shown on the balcony of the Great Hall, entrance on third floor south.

The bourse dealers are located on the second floor south in the Great Hall and The Rendezvous, which are adjoining.

The informal hospitality room is located in the Avenue East Room at the south end of Peacock Alley on the lobby level. Refreshments are available according to the daily time schedule to all Diamond Badge registered guests.

The A.N.A. Club Representatives' breakfast meeting and a number of associated organizations' meetings will be held in the Florentine Room and other smaller meeting rooms on the third floor north. Included are the Washington, Park View, Columbian, Music, Lincoln, Tally-Ho, and Lakeshore rooms, all of which are reached by the north elevators to the third floor (there is no second floor north). The Washington Room is for the use of the Token and Medal Society from Tuesday through Saturday.

Becoming familiar with the third floor crossover will save some steps and time; it starts from near the north elevators and from the top of the second escalator in the south section of the building.

EXHIBIT JUDGES FORUM

Due to the favorable response received last year at Houston, a second exhibit judging symposium will be held this year immediately following the Awards Presentation Meeting on Friday morning, in the same room. Moderator for this year's forum will be Board Member Virginia Culver, Exhibit Rules Chairman of Arcadia, Calif.

Numismatic Information .....Maurice M. Gould, Chestnut Hill, Mass.
Past president of New England Numismatic Association, fellow of the Royal Numismatic Society, author, lecturer and teacher of numismatics.

Arrangement and Originality .....Doris Martin, Houston, Texas
Member of the A.N.A. exhibit rules committee who has been prominent in Texas numismatic activities for a number of years.

Completeness .....George D. Hatie, Grosse Pointe, Mich.
A.N.A. legal counsel, treasurer of Token and Medal Society, past president of Michigan State Numismatic Society, and a long-time exhibitor.

Condition of Material .....Art Lovi, Pensacola, Fla.
Widely-known exhibitor and lecturer who has devoted much time and effort to improving exhibit rules and judging standards.

Rarity of Material .....Byron Johnson, Seattle, Wash.
Past president of Pacific Northwest Numismatic Association, head judge of this convention and board member of the Token and Medal Society.

Each member of the forum will speak a few minutes on how an exhibitor should prepare his display to merit the maximum number of judging points, and then how a judge should score an exhibit by the point system. Each is assigned one of the aspects used in judging. A question and answer period will follow with questions directed to the proper panelist by the moderator.

EDUCATIONAL FORUM

One of the highlights of each A.N.A. convention is the Educational Forum, and this year will be no exception. The Forum will be held Thursday evening in the Avenue West Room at the south end of Peacock Alley on the Lobby Level. The program will feature four speakers who will augment their talks with illustrations and slides. For the third year Charles R. Hoskins, acting director of the Money Museum of the National Bank of Detroit, will serve as moderator for the Forum. The program will begin at eight o'clock sharp, and all A.N.A. members and guests are urged to attend this informative and entertaining event.

Charles Hoskins
Moderator

Virgil Hancock of Bellaire, Texas, will open the program with a talk on trade coins of the world. Hancock entered numismatics thirty years ago when he acquired some gold 8-escudo pieces. Since that time his interest in numismatics has broadened from the coinage of Spanish-America to include all world trade coins and the coinage of China. Earlier this year he published his revision of Frederik Schjoth's inventory catalog, Chinese Currency. Presently he is writing a book to be entitled Coins for the Traders of the World. A graduate of the Los Angeles College of Optometry, Virgil patented two types of trifocal lenses which today enjoy broad usage. In addition to being an A.N.A. member, he is a member of the American Numismatic Society and the Royal Numismatic Society. His wife, Eleanor, also takes an active interest in numismatics.

William T. Louth of Pelham, New York, will speak on the history of medals and current trends in medallic art and numismatics. Louth is president and director of the Medallic Art Company of New York City, and a noted authority on the history and art of medals. He became associated with the Medallic Art Company in 1948 after graduating from DePauw University, Greencastle, Indiana; was elected a director of the firm in 1959, and president in 1960. He is a member of the A.N.A., the Professional Numismatist Guild, the Token and Medal Society, the Museum of Modern Art, Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the National Sculpture Society. President Johnson appointed Louth to the 1966 United States Assay Commission. An elder of the Huguenot Presbyterian Church, he is also a director of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Company. With his wife, Ellen, he resides in suburban New York with their two sons.

Richard Jordan of Roselle, Illinois, will discuss counterfeiting in the United States. Jordan is the Assistant to the Special Agent in Charge of the Chicago District of the United States

Richard Jordan

Secret Service, where he is responsible for supervising and coordinating all counterfeiting investigations. He has been associated with the Secret Service since receiving his Bachelor of Science degree of Police Administration from Michigan State University in 1955. He has served in the Detroit and Milwaukee offices in addition to the Chicago District office. Jordan is a member of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and the Wisconsin Chiefs of Police Association. He and his wife, Barbara Mae, have four children and live in a suburb of Chicago.

The final speaker of the evening will be the historian of the American Numismatic Association, Jack W. Ogilvie of Hollywood, California.

Jack W. Ogilvie

Ogilvie, in observance of the organization's Diamond Anniversary, will speak on the personalities who shaped the history of the A.N.A. Jack has been active in A.N.A. affairs for thirty years and has received every major award the organization presents, including the Farran Zerbe Award in 1964, the Heath Literary Award in 1948, and the Medal of Merit in 1953. He was appointed A.N.A. Historian in 1950 and has since written a series of articles, "The A.N.A. and its Presidents" which has appeared in The Numismatist. Ogilvie has served on several A.N.A. committees and is currently chairman of the Numismatic Hall of Fame Committee. He is a member of numerous numismatic organizations including the American, Canadian, California State, Southern Colorado, and Heart of America Numismatic Associations; and is film editor of the Space Systems Division of the U. S. Air Force.

Neither the A.N.A., convention committee, Chicago Coin Club, nor Pick-Congress Hotel will be liable for loss of valuables left in guest rooms at any time.

Marina City

Chicago is not an old city, yet it has its "old" and its "new" components, which are often side by side. On the back of this program's cover is pictured the Marina Towers, completed less than four years ago and since then typifying Chicago today. This "city-within-a-city" is located on the north bank of the Chicago River, in downtown Chicago, between State and Dearborn Streets. In all, it occupies over three acres of ground, is made up of five buildings (of which the towers are two), reaches from 180 feet below ground to 588 feet above, with a 285-foot television antenna atop the west tower.

The world's tallest apartment buildings have a total of 896 apartments above the 20th floor, garage space for 900 cars on the first 18 stories, and room for storing about 500 power boats at the river level. Other features of the complex are a 15-story commercial and office building, various shops, swimming pool, ice skating rink, 38 bowling lanes, restaurants, a 1500-seat theatre, and many other facilities — all of which go together to justify the term "city-within-a-city." Tours are available for groups of 15 or more.

Acknowledgements

This convention program booklet represents the work of almost one year and the cooperation of many people. We would express particular gratitude to A.N.A. Historian Jack W. Ogilvie for his invaluable help. While scores of people have volunteered and given their assistance in preparing the booklet, special recognition is due to the following:

Members of the A.N.A. Board of Governors

Chicago Coin Club: Philip J. More, President; Marjorie Baker, Secretary

Chicago Convention Bureau: Shirley Belz, Convention Manager

Chicago Historical Society: Mary Frances Rhymers, Print Department

Chicago Municipal Reference Library

Mrs. Margo Russell, Executive Editor, Coin World

Richard J. Daley, Mayor of Chicago, Mayor's Office of Information

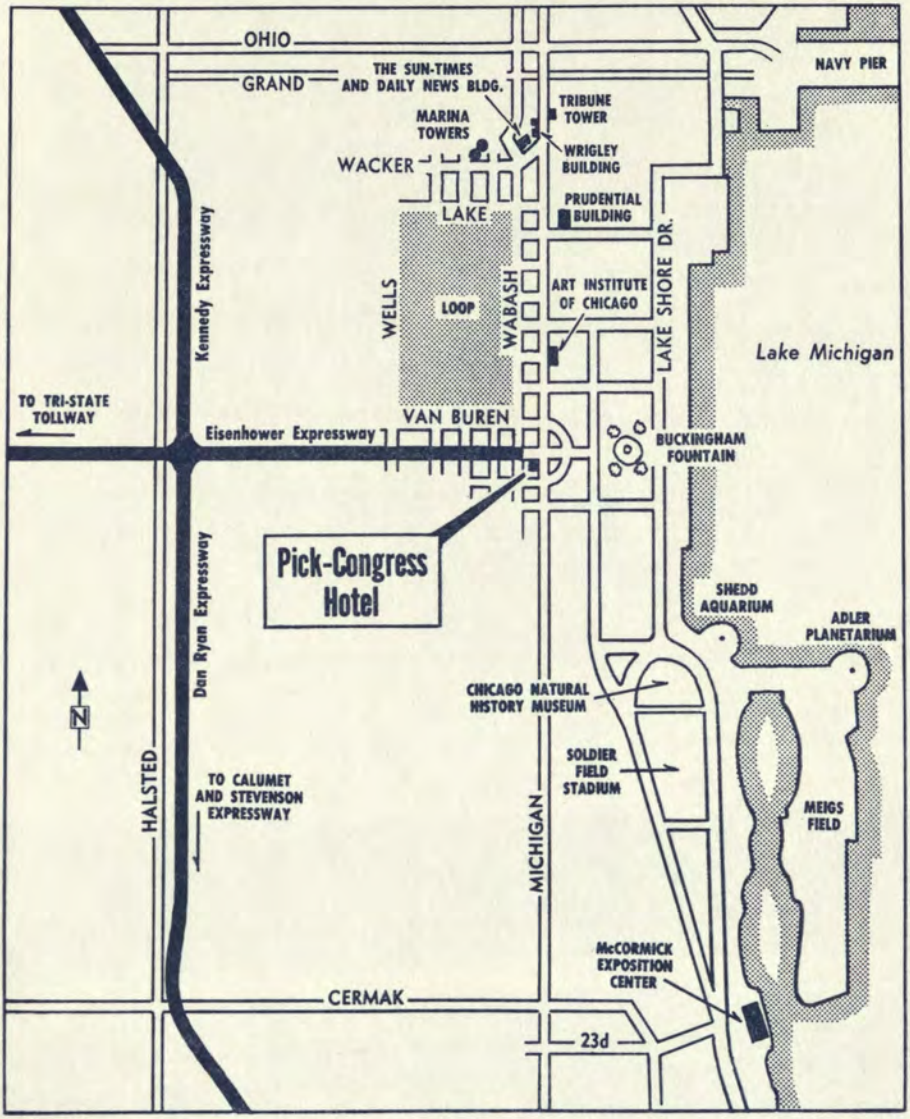
A.N.A. Librarian John J. Gabarron

A.N.A. Acting Executive Secretary Jack R. Koch

Pick-Congress Hotel: Mary Edgren, Public Relations

General Chairman Harry X Boosel and his entire committee.

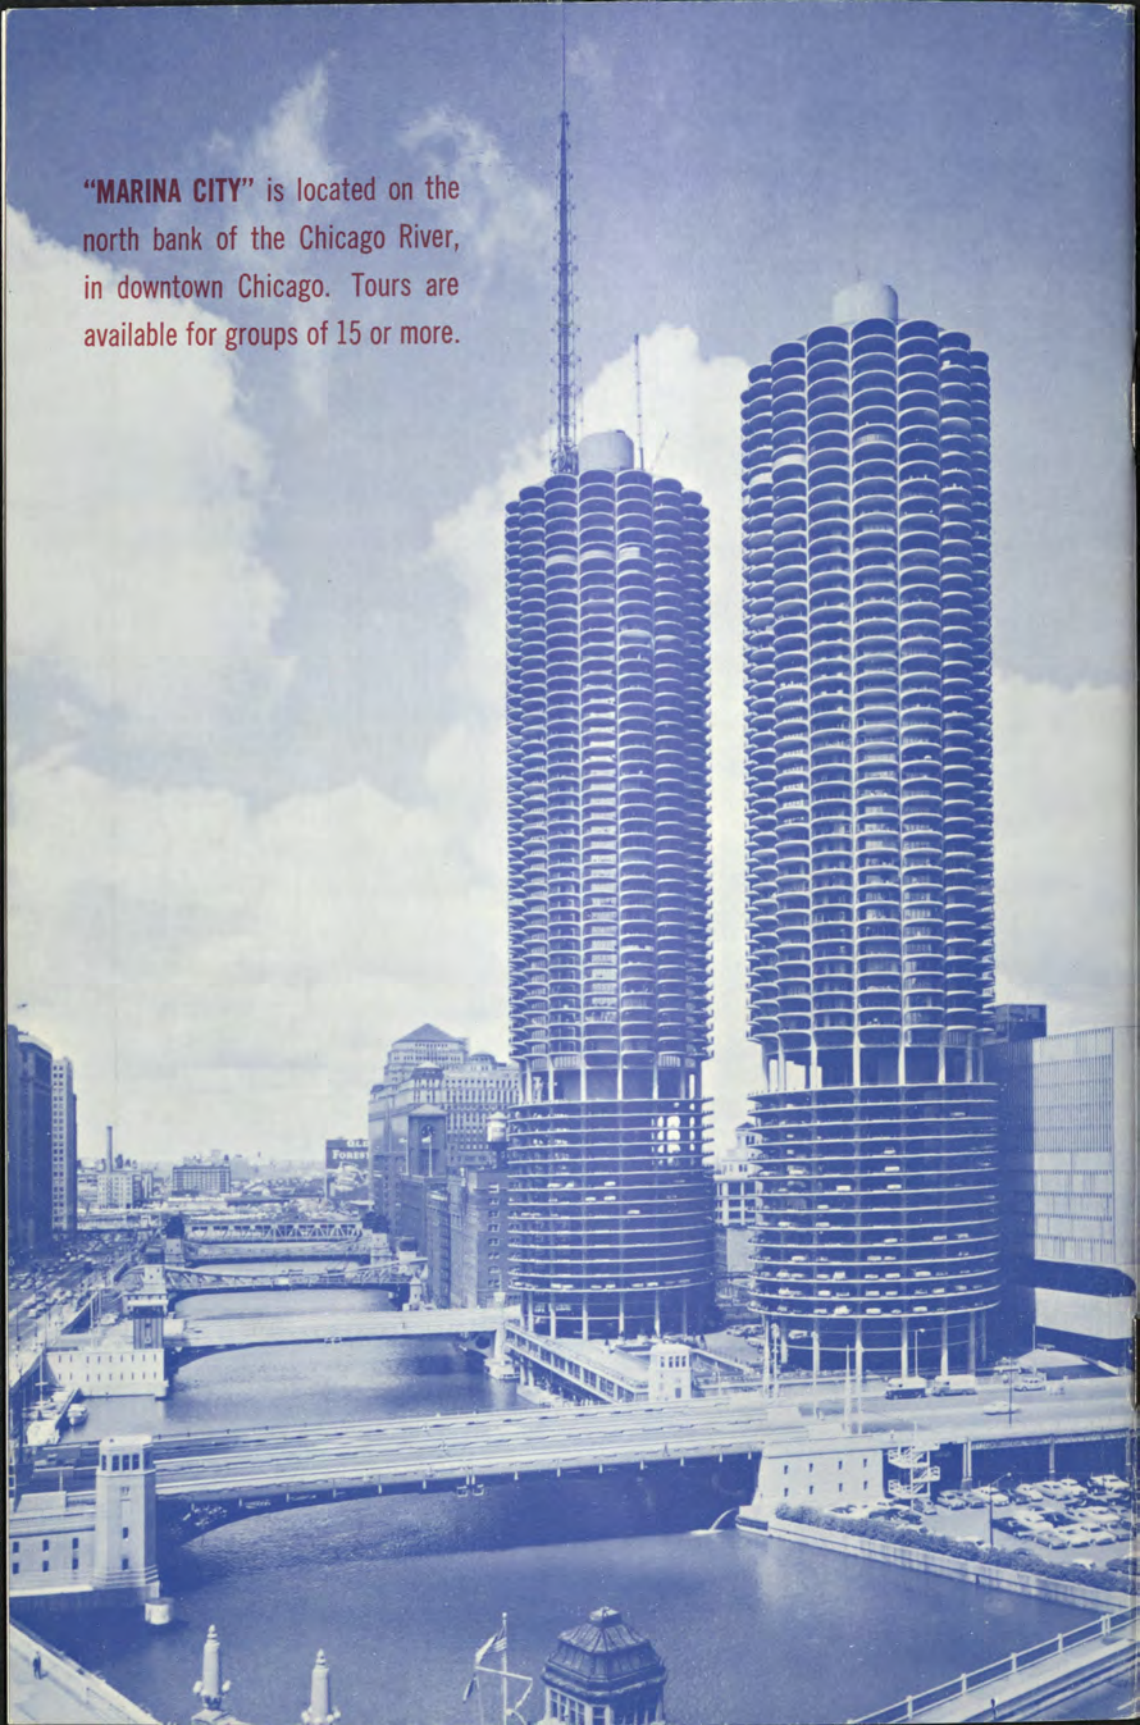
HOWARD B. EISENBERG,
Program Editor



Chicago IS a big city, but an easy city in which to find one's way around. With but few exceptions, the streets are either straight east-west or north-south. Also, street numbering is uniform, starting from the zero corner of State and Madison in about the center of the "Loop." Incidentally, the "Loop" is the downtown area bounded by the elevated (L) railway structure: Wabash on the east, Wells on the west, Lake on the north, and Van Buren on the south.

The map shown here extends from Halsted (800) on the west to Lake Michigan on the east; from Cermak (2200) on the south to Ohio (600) on the north. Major streets, highways, drives and points of special interest in this area are shown. The regular and classified telephone directories have maps of the city near the front. More detailed maps are available without charge from the Chicago Transit Authority (at elevated and subway stations) and at many filling stations.

The fare on Chicago buses, elevated and subway is 25 cents, with a 5-cent additional charge for a transfer (when you pay the original fare) which is good between systems at crossing points. If you need directions for a trip in the city, ask a member of the host Chicago Coin Club, in the Hospitality Room, or at the Communications Center.



"MARINA CITY" is located on the north bank of the Chicago River, in downtown Chicago. Tours are available for groups of 15 or more.
